VOLUME 9
DEKALB JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL
WATERLOO, INDIANA

ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Richard Barkman, Principal

Mr. Timothy Brown, Assistant Principal

Travel with us the D.J.H.S. corridors of time and return to the fall of 1976 to encounter those first fearful 9th graders as they crossed the threshold to a new frontier in their education. Through the doors of D.J.H.S. have passed many 9th graders since then until the spring of 1984 when these hallowed halls will no longer reflect the 9th graders or reverberate their fantasies. As they depart, so too will D.J.H.S. only to then rise again as did the Phoenix, transformed to D.M.S., Dekalb Middle School. Accompaying the name change will be an entire new group of hopeful students, the sixth graders. With them will come the vibrancy and enthusiasm of a new class to a renamed building as happened 8 years earlier with that first 9th grade class. D.M.S. will remain the educational home of three classes of students, still hardworking and aspiring to an ever promising future. The continuous process of learning will proceed without interruption and the proud heritage of these hallowed halls will remain the same even though the grade levels of its occupants have changed.

As the world changes so has this building to meet the ever increasing demands and challenges that accompany these changes. Those students who become a part of the learning and tradition of this building will also change with the passing of the years, but each shall take with him all of the knowledge and experiences gained during his sojourn in these hallowed halls.
